For fifty years the people of the Will County Threshermen's Association have been operating their vintage equipment and showing people farming practices from years ago. Nearly a century ago the farm families would hear the cry "The threshermen are coming." Now you can come and see grain threshed, corn steamed, and straw baled. For the children there is a petting zoo, steam train rides, and tractors of all kinds. Concessions, a flea market, and a country gift store, too. Farming practices have changed, but the same camaraderie exists today, and the threshermen want to share their enthusiasm for their machinery and work. This festival takes place at the Dollinger Family Farm in Channahon. Admission is $5.00 for adults, and $2.00 for eleven and under.
